THE HOLY GRAIL.

CHAPTER XXXV.

THE ADVENTURES OF THE MESSENGERS WHO GO TO SEEK NASCIENS.

They go backwards and forwards, but can hear no news of Nasciens (p. 2). One night they come to a city and lodge with an old vavasour, who tells them of their danger in coming as Christians to a heathen city (p. 3). Its name is Tosquean (Fr. roquehan), and it is the birthplace of the parents of St Mary the Egyptian (p. 4). One of the messengers has a vision,-that Joseph of Arimathea appears to him, and tells him that Nasciens is not there (p. 4), and so takes him to a high mountain, shows him a ship in the Grecian sea, and tells him that Nasciens is in it (p. 5).-Next morning he tells his companions, and they agree to go to the sea, get a ship and seek Nasciens (p. 5, They travel shoreward through a hot land (p. 6). One of them dies of thirst, and is buried at Alexandria (p.7). The others come to the shore, and find a ship with two hundred dead men in it, and a maiden under a plank (p. 7). She tells them that the corpses were the men of her father King Label, who were attacked by the knights of the King of Sarre (p. 8), and all killed; but she, as a maiden, was let go, and has lived in the ship with the corpses ever since (p. 9). The messengers consult what to do, and one advises that they have the corpses buried, and then get a mariner to sail the ship for them (p. 9). So they get people, and bury the corpses by the seaside, and cut an inscription on a rock near (p. 10). They then ask the damsel what she is going to do. She doesn't know, and cries (p. 10). They agree to take her with them, and she consents to go (p. 11). They cannot get a Master for the ship, but provision it, and go on board and to bed (p. 12). A great storm rises, and drives GRAAL.—VOL. II.

them for three days far out to sea (p. 12, 13). On the fourth day the ship splits into four pieces on a rock; two messengers are drowned (p. 13), two reach the island, and one of them saves the damsel (p. 13). They thank God and ask His protection, and then comfort the damsel (p. 14), and tell her of their faith, and how Christ delivers his friends from all evils (p. 15). She promises to be Christ's servant if He will save them from the danger they are in (p. 15). They look about the rock, see a bit of old wall, and sleep under it (p. 16). Next day they mount the rock, and find a little house most richly furnished as for a lord (p. 16), and in it a gorgeous bed with four posts of gold and precious stones (p. 17). At the head of the bed is the tomb of 'Ypocras, the beste fesiscien that euere sawh lyvenge ony man' (p. 17). They wonder greatly at the richness of the house, which was made by Hippocras 'for his maner' or dwelling-place (p. 18).

Five Messengers go to seek for Nasciens,

[on leaf 45, back] Now telleth here this Storye Anon, Whanne the fyve Messengeris weren gon From the qweene, sire Nasciens to seke 4 —That Gentyl knyht So good & Meke,— Somtyme towardis they Reden faste, And somtime bakwardis they prekyd In haste, for they ne Cowde knowen non Certeinte In what Contre that he scholde be. 8

THE HISTORY OF THE PHYSICIAN YPOCRAS.1

How he was the most learned physician living; but was once 'reproved be clergies dome,' on this wise:-when he came to Rome in Augustus's time, all men were mourning for the supposed death of the Emperor's nephew (p. 20). Ypocras goes to the corpse, finds life in it, puts the juice of a herb into its mouth, and up it gets alive, whole and sound (p. 21). The Empress, to honour Ypocras, puts up an image of gold of him, and another of her son. in the highest place of Rome, with a tabernacle and inscription over (p. 22). Ypocras cures many people, and is counted half a god, and his 'fygure' is worshipped (p. 23). Then a fair lady comes from the parts of Galilee, and, when she sees these golden images, she smiles, and says she'll soon prove Ypocras a fool (p. 24). The Emperor appoints a meeting for them at the temple, and the fair lady looks hard at Ypocras, and he at her, till he falls in love with her, and is 'clene browht in a letargye' for desire of her (p. 24-5). The Emperor and Queen come to see him, and so does the fair lady (p. 25). His heart is glad at this, and he tells her his love (p. 26). She beguiles him, saying she loves him too, and will be at his will (p. This cures him, and he returns to Court (p. 27). The fair lady shows him her bower at the top of a tower, and tells him that the son of the King of Babylon is there (p. 27); she proposes that he shall get into a vessel, and she shall draw him up and let him talk to her. Ypocras consents (p. 28). He sleeps at the Emperor's, goes out at night (p. 28), and finds the vessel ready. The lady and her cousin draw him up to the middle of the tower (p. 28). and there he hangs in his basket all day, with the people staring at him (p. 29). When the Emperor sees him at night he orders him to be let down, but Ypoeras will not explain how he came there (p. 30)2; so the Emperor has the images of his own nephew and Ypocras broken (p. 30). Ypocras stays at Rome till a knight comes and tells the Emperor of Christ's miracles, when Ypocras says he must go and see Christ (p. 31), and accordingly starts for Galilee (p. 32). He comes to Persia, and raises the king's dead son to life (p. 33). After a time, the king marries him³ to his daughter (p. 33), and Ypocras tries to find out the most 'temperable' isle to live in (p. 33). A mastershipman tells him of it, and he, and his, sail there (p. 34). Ypocras has a beautiful house built (p. 34); and makes a wonderful bed, in which if a sick man lies he is cured (p. 34). He also makes a wonderful cup, in which any poison will lose its strength, and not hurt a man if he drinks it (p. 35). But Ypocras's wife is very proud of her rank, and hates her husband (p. 35). She mixes some poison

² The French text adds that the lady had a picture painted of herself and cousin pulling up Ypocras. This she put up before the images, and then told the Emperor all about it. Ypocras has to confess it is true, and then insists that the images shall be taken down.

³ The French text takes him to Giant's Island and the City of Corinth, where he marries the daughter of the King of Sur.

in bread, finds it will kill dogs, and then puts some of it into Ypocras's cup with his wine (p. 35). The cup deprives it of its strength, and it doesn't hurt him (p. 35). His wife is sorry for this, and throws the cup into the sea, to her husband's great distress (p. 36). One day, Ypocras tells her that any one will die who eats the flesh of a wild sow at heat, that is under their window (p. 36). She tells her cook to kill the sow, and send it up for supper (p. 37). Ypocras eats it, and says he shall die unless he can get some of the liquor the pork was boiled in (p. 37). None can be got, so he reproaches his wife and dies (p. 37). His friends bury him in a gorgeous tomb (p. 37), and the King of Babylon comes and destroys the whole place (p. 38).

Ful trewly Recordeth here this Storye Here follows the story of Ypoeras, Of the worthynesse of ypocras Sekerlye, For the worthiest Fecuscian that was the wisest physician Evere Acompted In Ony plas: 4 For of that Scyense More Coude he that ony Man leveng In Cristiente; in Christendom. but [for] On thyng that he dyde At Rome, He gets into trouble at Rome. CHAPTER XXXVII.

OF THE TEMPTATIONS OF THE TWO MESSENGERS AND THE DAMSEL; AND OF THEIR MEETING WITH MORDREYNS, NASCIENS, AND CELIDOYNE 2 .

How the Messengers and the Damsel are much east down (p. 39, 40), and how she declares she must die for hunger (p. 41). They see the sea on fire, and a flaming ship comes to the Island (p. 41, 42); but the flame dies out, and they find a loathly man on board, as black as any shoe (p. 42), who says he is come to take them from the island if they will do homage to him (p. 43). The messengers ask who he is, and what his name is (p. 43, 44). He answers, The Wise Serpent, and renews his offer of saving them (p. 44). The damsel refuses it, for which he reproaches her as both 'fool and caytyf' (p. 44), and tells them they shall die on the rock (p. 45). One of the messengers declares they will trust in Jesus (p. 46), and the black man departs. They go up to Ypocras's house, talk over the matter, and conclude that their tempter was the devil (p. 46, 47). After sleeping, they pray Christ for help (p. 47, 48), and see a vessel coming with 'a fair old man' on board; whom they greet (p. 48), and tell him they trust in God to help them. He confirms them in their faith (p. 49). The damsel assents, but suggests that they have 'sustenance non, but the eyr, the see, and rock of ston' (p. 49). One of them tells the old man of 'The Wise Serpent,' and asks who he was (p. 50). The old man tells them that he was 'The verray serpent of helle,' and that if they had trusted his ship, it would have drowned them, as it was one of his 'Mynistres whereupon that enemy rode' (p. 50, 51). The old man assures the damsel that she shall be taken from the island (p. 51), and then vanishes, leaving 'a swetnesse, as thowh alle worldly spycerye amongs hem hadde ben trewelve' (p. 51). The damsel believes he was Christ, or one of His servants (p. 52). They mount the rock to sleep again, but the damsel ponders on the means of deliverance (p. 52-3). She thinks she hears a cry, goes higher up the rock, and sees a great light on the sea (p. 53). She wakes the messengers, and they all go down, and find a lighted ship with 'a fayr damysele' on board (p. 53-4), who offers to take them away if they will do her bidding (p. 54). She is the 'Lady of Atenys Londe,' 'the wisest creature' in the world, and the helper of all who do her homage (p. 54-5). They agree to worship her if she is of their faith; but on hearing that she is a 'Paynyme' they refuse (p. 55-6). She becomes angry, and asks them what good they've got from their new faith,—nothing but 'peyne and travaille' (p. 56-7). They answer, Christ had travail for them, and so they reek not of it (p. 57). She threatens them with death, and then vanishes (p. 57). They sleep in Ypocras's house, and next morning pray to Christ (p. 58). The ship, the old man, and the lion, that had been with Celidoyne, come to them (p. 58-9). He promises to take them to king Mordreins 'and sire Nasciens' (p. 59). They rejoice, but are afraid of the lion (p. 59-60). He urges them to enter his ship; and they do so (p. 60-1). The old man speaks 'ful swete wordis to the maiden,' and remains himself on the rock (p. 61). The messengers and the maiden sail away, till on the third day they meet 'Mordrayns, Nasciens, and Celidoyne' (p. 61), whose ship they go on board of, and the lion-ship goes 'as fast away as evere flew swalwe in the someris day '(p. 62). The Messengers and Damsel relate their adventures to Nasciens (p. 62).

Thanne gan Nasciens forto Refreyne
Of thike Messengeris In Certeyne
Of his Soster and Of his wyf,
whethir they hadden helthe and lyf.	856
thanne Answerid the Messengeris the,
"Sire, In good hele ben they bothe two;
But Abasched sore they be,
For of 30w they ne haven non Certeynte."	860
"ha, worthy Lord," quod Mordrayns the kyng,		Mordreins wishes
"It were to Me a Joyful tydyng		to know where he is.
and I wyste how fer In the Se I were,
Owther Ny Ony lend In Ony Manere."	864
"3e, Sire," qued Nasciens to the Kyng,		Nasciens says,
"Therefore Make 3e non Morneng;
For be his wille it Moste ben do
As hit hath ben Al hiderto;	868
and whanne it is plesing to God Oure Kynge,		they will get home
Into Owre Owne Contre he wele vs brynge;		when it pleases God.
Therfore to hym let vs now preye,
and leven that Mater that we of seye."	872 Thus to-gederis God his Servauntes browhte, that Nethir of Other ne wiste nowhte;

For Into diuers Contres departed they were, and, lo, thoruhe his Miht, Azen to-Gederis weren they 876 bere.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

A Priest clad in white comes walking on the sea (p. 65); with the sign of the Cross he cures Nasciens of his wound (p. 66), and says that Christ will take Joseph and Josephes and their Company into Great Britain, all walking on the sea (p. 67). A ship comes up to them, and the Priest orders Celidoyne on board of it (p. 67-8). They reach Mordreins's Castle, Barne, while the inmates are asleep, rouse them, and are received with great joy (p. 68-9). Next day the Barons near arrive; and then the Queen (p. 69). Messengers are sent out after Nasciens's Queen Flegentyne, and find her in the realm of Meotyde (p. 70). She comes to her husband in Sarras; but is distressed at not finding Celidoyne, till his Adventures are told her (p. 70). King Label's daughter (who was afterwards Celidoyne's wife) is christened; as "Myn Sire Robert Boroun" tells us, who translated this story from the Latin of the hermit to whom God gave it (p. 70-1). Nasciens can hear nothing of where Celidoyne is (p. 71), gets anxious about it, and prays God to let him go into the strange land where he has been told his household shall multiply (p. 72). So Christ sends him a Vision, and tells him to arise and go to the sea, enter a ship, and follow whatever he sees there (p. 72-3). He gets a good horse, and rides off (p. 73). His wife Flegentyne is distressed at this, and the Barons disperse in search of Nasciens (p. 74). One of them, Nabor (a eruel and felonous old man of seventy), tracks him by the nails in his horse's feet, rides 70 miles after him in one day (p. 74), and finds him utterly exhausted by a battle with the giant Fereyn (p. 75), whom Nabor kills, and then insists on Nasciens's returning home (p. 76). Nasciens refuses; Nabor drags him to the ground (p. 77-8), and draws his sword to kill him, but is struck dead for such unknightly conduct to his liege lord (p. 79-80). Then comes up Nasciens's friend, the Lord of Tarabel (p. 80), and says that Nabor well deserved his death (p. 81); whereupon a voice from heaven rebukes him for judging another when he had himself killed his own father for the sake of his inheritance (p. 81); and the Lord of Tarabel is thereupon struck dead by a thunderbolt (p. 82). A monk comes and advises Nasciens to bury all the three corpses in three Tombs, and carve their story on them as a warning of God's vengeance (p. 83). Nasciens sends messengers to his wife Flegentyne begging her to have this done; and the bodies are put into the earth with many tears and sore weeping (p. 83-4).

Thus twey nyhtes to-gederis Abyden they, As here Reherseth now this Story, And vppon the thridde Nyht

CHAPTER XXXIX.

OF NASCIENS'S FURTHER ADVENTURES, AND HIS GENEALOGY.

Nasciens rides off to the sea (p. 85). There he finds Solomon's ship, and is asked by a lovely maiden to put her on board of it (p. 85-6); he tries to, but the ship keeps running away (p. 86), on which he drops the beautiful damsel, crosses himself, and she instantly appears as a foul fiend (p. 86). Then he has a vision: A good man tells him that Celidoyne is in the Land Promist to him, and that he, Nasciens, shall never return to his own country (p. 87-8). Nasciens asks who shall be the last of his line, and is given "a lyttel wryt," to tell him all about it (p. 89). Then Celidoyne appears to him, with Nine Kings, of whom one is feeble and poor (p. 89), and another like a lion, and all kneel to Celidoyne (p. 90). After this, Nasciens wakes, and reads his Genealogy after Celidoyne, 1. Narpus; 2. Nasciens; 3. Elyan the grete (or Alains li gros); 4. Ysayes; 5. Jonaanz; 6. Lawnceloz; 7. Baus; 8. Lawncelot (p. 90-1), like a hound; 9. Galath, like a flood, thick at the source, clear at the end, who shall pass all men in bounty, and end the Adventures of Britain (p. 91-2). Nasciens awakes rejoicing; reads his Rolette all day (p. 92-3), and all night wonders why his eighth descendant should have been like a dog, and the ninth like a flood (p. 93-4). He prays to God to explain this, and a ship comes close to his (p. 94-5), with, seemingly, no one in it. But he boards the new ship, and finds an old man there (p. 95), who rather snnbs him at first for disturbing him (p. 95), and afterwards for wanting to pry into God's secrets, like a great fool (p. 97); but at last explains that the lion typifies a wise man of good life (p. 98-9), and the dog a sinner (p. 99); and the flood, as it was thick at the ontset, a man begotten of fornication; and as it was clear in the middle, the virgin knight of greatest prowess and grace that ever lived (p. 99-100). The good man then vanishes, and Nascieus thanks God for his tidings (p. 100).

Thanne Nasciens Anon, with-Owten dowte,

CHAPTER XL.

OF FLEGENTYNE'S MEEKNESS, AND HOW SHE HAS THE THREE TOMBS BUILT AND CARVED.1

How Flegentyne bare her sorrows very meekly, and prayed for Nasciens and Celidoyne (p. 102); and how, as she was going to the Virgin's church, the men of Tarabel met her and gave her her husband's message (p. 102, and see ch. xxxviii. p. 83); and how she took silver and gold, and went and got workmen, and set up "the tombs of Judgment in the contre betwene Tarabel and Babiloine" over Nabor, the Lord of Tarabel, and the Giant Fereyn (p. 103); and how she then retired to her eastle Belyl, and would not leave it, though entreated by Mordrains and Sarraeynte to do so (p. 103-4).

CHAPTER XLI.

HOW JOSEPH AND HIS COMPANIONS CROSS OVER TO BRITAIN ON JOSEPHES'S SHIRT.²

How God delivered from prisons, and fed always, Joseph and his companions; and one night ordered Joseph to beget Galaaz on his wife, which he did (p. 105-6). How they come to the sea, and ask counsel of Josephes as to their crossing it (p. 106-7). He says, God will take some over at once, but not all (p. 107); and why, because, though He kept His promise of help to them, some of them were nuchaste with their wives, and others repented leaving their homes, therefore they cannot pass over (p. 108); but the good ones shall (p. 108). These, Josephes kisses (p. 111), and by order of a voice from heaven sends the Graal-Bearers first, who walk barefoot on the sea as on dry ground (p. 111-12); then he pulls off his shirt, and calls Joseph first, then Dro (p. 112), and 150 persons on to it on the sea, God "redressing" it, and making it hold them, except two sinners who drop off, and sink like lead or stone (p. 113). On the Shirt they cross the sea, and arrive safe in Great Britain, which is peopled by Saracens and other miscreants (p. 113). Josephes prays for his friends left behind, and is told that they shall arrive safe, and that he is to spread Christianity over the land (p. 114). He tells his companions that Britain is their promist land, and exhorts them to keep God's law and establish it there (p. 115). They offer at once to do what he orders for the rearing of God's law; but he decides on waiting for tidings of their companions (p. 115).

² The Additional MS. heads the illustration to this chapter,

Now telleth here this Story Anon, That aftir Josephe from Sarras was gon, So that between hym and his Compenye Manye Jornes wenten they Sekerlye tyl they weren past the flowm Of Ewfrate, And Manye Othir Jornes bothe Erly and late. The story returns to Nasciens and Celidoyne, and Ek to Celydoyne In Certeyn.

CHAPTER XLII.

NASCIENS, AND THE SINNERS OF JOSEPH'S COMPANY, LAND IN BRITAIN, MEET JOSEPH, AND THEN CELIDOYNE. 1

Nasciens goes back on board Solomon's ship, and at night has a Vision of the Good Man who gave him the writ, taking it from him (p. 117). When he wakes, the book is gone (p. 118). He goes to sea, and is met by an 'Amyrawnt' and his knights going to war with king Salarnande of Greece (p. 118). They call him a fool, and say they never saw such a 'nise' man as he is, but give him some food (p. 118-19). After long tossing about, his ship comes, while he sleeps, to the port where Joseph's left-behind followers are (p. 119). They, being orderd from heaven, come on board (p. 119); and when out at sea they find Nasciens (p. 120), wake him, and tell him their story. He recognises among them his knight Clamarides, or Clamacides, from Sarras (p. 121), and gets him to explain how his company came there (p. 122). They all arrive in Britain, are welcomd by Joseph and his company (p. 124), and stay talking, being fed by the Holy Graal (p. 125). After setting out, they go foodless for a day and a night, and are about to quarrel over twelve little loaves (p. 126), when Josephes makes them sit down, breaks each loaf into three, puts it into the Graal, and then feeds all the 500 folk miraculously with the loaves (p. 127), so that they leave behind more than the loaves themselves (p. 127). Josephes preaches to them (p. 127), and then they travel on, and enter Castle Galafort, which has the sign of the Cross on the door (p. 128). They can see no one at first, but afterwards come on a large assembly of Saracen clerks, with whom Celidovne is arguing before Duke Gaanort (p. 129-30). Nasciens recognises his son, and they embrace (p. 130), and the Duke has the whole company lodgd and fed in his castle (p. 132). Celidoyne tells his father that his vessel brought him to Britain, and that he had lived with a good hermit in a wood (p. 132).

CHAPTER XLIII.

OF DUKE GAANORT'S VISIONS AND THEIR INTERPRETATION. 1

Duke Gaanort has a vision (p. 134), which the Saracen clerks cannot interpret, so the Christians are sent for (p. 135), and Josephes tells his own company and the Duke, that the clear water of the latter's vision typified baptism, whence all his company issued pure; and that the mist that blackend them typified their sin, and the black valley into which it went typified hell (p. 136). Gaanort is satisfied, and ealls on the Saracens to dispute about the Virgin Mary (p. 137). Their greatest doctor, Lucans, says, that no child can have been born without its mother knowing a man (p. 138); on which Josephes prays to the Virgin that Lucans may never speak more; and instantly he tears his tongue with fiery hands, pulls it out of his head, and falls down dead (p. 138). Gaanort asks Josephes to satisfy him as to the Virgin's virginity before and after Christ's birth (p. 139). Josephes tells him how, when he (Gaanort) was five years old, in Galilee he saw a type of it; for out of a fleur-de-lys he saw a rose-tree, with many poor roses, but one most glorious bud (p. 140-1); and out of that, closed as it was, one day came a man, who fought a serpent and slew it (p. 142), and pickt up the fallen roses (p. 142). And then the smell of the rose cured him (Gaanort) of a bad wound (p. 143); and, on his trying to unclose the rose, a man from heaven told him he should never know the meaning of what he had seen, because he was not of the right faith (p. 143). Gaanort worships Josephes, acknowledges that all he has said is true, and asks him to explain its meaning (p. 143-4). Josephes says, that the fleur-de-lys typified Eve (p. 144); the rose-tree the World (p. 145); the fallen roses, prophets in hell whom Christ researed (p. 145); the precious bud the Virgin Mary (p. 146); the man who came from her like a sunbeam through glass, Christ (p. 146), who, as 'a dedly man,' was tempted, died on the Cross, and rose again, and brought his friends from hell (p. 146-7). And the Virgin was Virgin ever, and you have never worshipt her, Duke Gaanort (p. 147).

CHAPTER XLIV.

OF THE CONVERSION OF DUKE GAANORT AND HIS PEOPLE.

All Gaanort's men declare that they believe the Virgin kept her Virginity before and after Christ's birth, and therefore they will be christend (p. 149). Gaanort too desires baptism (p. 150), and Josephes baptizes a thousand of the men (p. 150). Gaanort then orders the unbelievers out of the place; and they go on board a ship (p. 151), which soon turns "up so down," and drowns them all (p. 151); and next morning all the bodies are found under the Castle walls (p. 152). Josephes orders them to be buried, and a Tower raised over them, to be called "The Tower of Marvels" (p. 154), whence in Arthur's time knights shall issue to joust with all comers (p. 154). So the tower is built, and lasts till Lancelot breaks it in pieces, "as of Arthur's hows the storye, It doth declaren more openly" (p. 155). Gaanort also erects a Church in his Palace, in honour of Mary (p. 155); and Joseph's wife is delivered of her son Galaas, called Galaas the Fort, because he was born in the Castle (p. 155). The people round send and tell the King of Northumberland of Gaanort's Conversion (p. 156), and the King, by the advice of his Barons, orders the Duke to come to him (p. 157); but Josephes tells him to repudiate the King's seignory, and say he is under Christ's only (p. 157). This Gaanort does (p. 158), and the King of Northumberland at once summons his men to the fair city of Soose (p. 159), 5,000 strong, and thence marches "to Humber Water" and besieges Gaanort (p. 159). The Duke is afraid, but comforted that the Christians have "stuffed" the Castle well, and that it is strong (p. 160). Nasciens advises a sortie on the King's army while it is encamping (p. 161). This is made, and is very successful, 200 and more being killed (p. 162); however, the King and his knights arm themselves and fight, but no one can withstand Nasciens (p. 163), who fights 'as a devel' (p. 164), kills the King's horse, and then the King himself, as he will not yield (p. 165). The Saracens, on seeing their leader dead, flee to the Humber (p. 166), and so the Christians have the victory, and give God thanks for it (p. 167).

Duke Gaanort says he is quite satisfied with Josephes's explanation of his Vision, "Now, Certes," quod this Dewk thanne, CHAPTER XLV.

HOW JOSEPHES WAS IMPRISOND, AND HOW MORDREINS ARRIVD IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Josephes and his Company go to North Wales (p. 168), the king of which, Crwdelx, says they are thieves, and puts them in prison to starve for forty days, and see whether their holy vessel will feed them (p. 169). Christ promises them help (p. 170); and also appears, fresh crucified, to Mordreins at Sarras, and orders him to avenge Him on Crwdelx (p. 171). By his provost's advice, Mordreins summons Flegentine, and Label's danghter, and his own host, to Sarras (p. 172); appoints Aganore regent of his kingdom, and his heir (p. 173), and sets ont to the sea with 300 Barons and their retinne (p. 174). He sends back for his White Shield [see vol. I. p. 109, 159, &c.], and embarks (p. 174). A great tempest rises, so that they are afraid of perishing (p. 175). They pray to God; and a voice tells them to cast the Enemy out of the ship (p. 176). Thereupon Mordreins sprinkles Holy Water all about, and the devil, in the form of a damsel, flies out of a window, carrying with him a man whom he says is his (p. 176). Nothing but stench is found in the chamber, though the Captain of Castle Come is misst (p. 177). They wake a hermit who has slept through the turmoil, to explain the meaning of it all (p. 178). He says that this Captain of Come desired the wife of Nasciens, and so the Devil in her likeness came to him (p. 179), and his lust with her created the tempest; after which the Devil flew off with him (p. 180). This adventure makes the people in the ship better; and at last they all arrive in Great Britain, at Castle Caleph, next North Gales (p. 181). Two knights from Naseiens soon meet them (p. 181) and tell them news of Nasciens and Celidoyne (p. 182-3). Mordreins has his tents made ready, and Nasciens and Celidoyne soon arrive, to Flegentyne's great joy (p. 184). then tells them how he got to Britain,—over the sea, companionless, and fed by a bird once a day, till he came to Castle Galefort (p. 185), into which a good man took him (p. 186), and shewed him Duke Gaanort bereft of his mind by a devil, and about to drown his son in a well (p. 187). This son the good man rescued, and christend the child, leaving Celidoyne to teach the father (p. 187). Gaanor then assembld all the Saracen masters to dispute whether their law or the Christian were the better; and at that discussion Nasciens found them (p. 188). Nasciens then tells Mordreins of his fight with the Giant (p. 189), but will not tell the other wonders he has seen (p. 190).

Josephes, his father, and 150 of his company, leave Galafort, whanne Iosephes Owt of Galafort was gon, and his Fadir with hym wente Anon, and An hundred and fifty of his Meyne wente forth with hym In Compene;

but forto kepen Ioseps wif, lefte Nasciens Meyne with-owten stryf, and Celidoynes, and of his kyn Oper Also, Ioseps wyf tenden vnto.

Thus Iosephes from galafort wente,

and take the holy dish with them to North Wales. Thus Iosephes from galafort wente,
and the holy disch with hym presente;
Thus wente he On Every partye
the peple to preche Seckerlye, Tyl to North wales pat he was gon,
and his compenye Everychon:
whiche same tyme kyng was there king Crwdelx, ful fel In Eche Manere.

and An vntrewe paynem Evere he was, For In his persone was there non Gras.

and whanne that he herde telle that Into his lond weren Comen ful snelle Meyne that weren not Of his lay, but cristened they weren, they gonne hym say, and with him browhten An holy vessel, that ful of grace was Every del; but the kyng let this for leseng there, for he ne troweded In non Manere, but Seide that 'thevis that they were, whiche Into his lond weren Entre[d] in fere;' and comanded that Riht Anon to-forn hym they scholden be brownt Echon; So that to Cowrt weren they brownt Alle, To forn the kyng Into his halle.

Whanne the kyng this Compenye bere say, To forn hym Comen In so powre Aray, barefoted, and In pore Clothenge, and whanne hem he Sawh so Comenge, "This peple, he seide ful Schortly, Nis non thing Forto tellen by," but there hem Comanded to presown, Iosephes and this Meyne Echon. "And fowrty Dayes there so[h]olden they be with-owten Mete, Oper drynk, ful Sekerle, and that No Man scholde ben so hardy In Al that tyme to Comen hem Ny; For that I wolde gladliche knowe 3if they myhten leven Ony throwe, and whethir here lord hem feden scholde, Oper the vessel that they so holy it holde; For In that place scholen they Abyde Everych Owr In to that Tyde, And thanne be so the schal I se, 3if Alle here Seyenges trewe be;

The king of North Wales, Crwdelx, 20 hears of their coming,

says they are thieves,

CHAPTER XLVI.

HOW MORDREINS DELIVERS JOSEPHES, IS STRUCK BLIND, AND TURNS HERMIT; AND HOW CELIDOYNE IS MARRIED.

Hearing that Josephes and his Companions are imprisond by King Crwdelx, Mordreins summons him to give them up (p. 191), and, on his refusal, harries his country (p. 192). Crwdelx collects a host of 5000 men at Legwetone (p. 192), marches against Mordreins, and the battle begins (p. 193). The Pagans are getting the worst of it, when Crwdelx orders his men to set on Mordreins (p. 194). They wound him and throw him to the ground (p. 194), but Gaanor unhorses Crwdelx (p. 194). Nasciens charges them, and the North Wales men flee (p. 195). Mordreins orders a pursuit into their city; and by eve not one is left alive (p. 195), Mordreins attributes all his power to God, and delivers Josephes out of prison (p. 196). Thanksgivings are made before the Graal (p. 197), and, as Mordreins presses near to see "that blessed Seint Graal" (1. 250), a Voice warns him to desist, and then a Hand takes away his sight (p. 198). He confesses himself a fool, but prays that he may live till the coming of Nasciens's ninth descendant (p. 198). This is promist him, and that then he shall have his sight restord (p. 198-9). He says he shall go back to Galafort, and marry Celidoyne to King Label's daughter (p. 200). As he cannot ride, he is carried in a litter (p. 200): the marriage is solemnisd, and an heir, Nasciens, engenderd (p. 201). By Josephes's counsel (p. 202), Mordreins, after giving his wife and shield into Nasciens's keeping (p. 203), retires to a hermitage to serve God (p. 204). An Abbey of White Monks is founded there, and many Barons come to see Mordreins, who lives 200 years and more, till Galahad comes (p. 204-5), as affirm myn Sire Robert of Borron—who translated this Story of Sank Ryal out of Latin into French by Holy Church's command (l. 496—500),—and Holy Church (p. 205).

Thus spoken they longe of this Matere, Mordreins and Nasciens rejoice and Gret Comfort to hem it was there over their meeting, that hem god schewede so his Myht, that departed weren Many A Nyht, 4 And so sodeynly to-Gederis I-Comen Alle, Gret Ioye Amonges hem was be-falle. Thanne Axede the kyng After Iosephes Anon, Into what partyes that he was gon. 8 thanne ansswerede Nasciens to hym ful sone, and Mordreins hears that & seide, kyng Crwdelx hadde hem in preson done. Josephes has been put in prison thanne answerid kyng Mordrayns Agayn, by king Crwdelx. "that vppon him wolde he werren ful pleyn, 12 They agree to go to deliver him, And distroyen bothe Rente And lond, and Al that Evere he kepith In hond, but 3if he deliuere Owt Of preson Iosephs and His Meyne Echon." 16 [leaf 67] and to this they Cordeden Alle, what so Evere there-Offen myhte befalle. vppon the Morwen, whanne it was day, he Comanden his payylouns to ben taken Away, 20 And Comanded his Ost Anon to Maken hem Redy Everichon; and so Ryden they forth In Compenye and they start for North Wales. Tyl to Northgales Comen they Sekerlye. 24 thanne sente he to kyng Crwdelx In haste, 'that the Crestene he deliuerede faste, Mordreins summons wheele he kepte In his preson Crwdelx to give up his prisoners, with-Owten Skele Other Ony Reson;

CHAPTER XLVII.

OF JOSEPHES IN CAMELOT, AND OF KING AGRESTES'S TREACHERY AND DEATH.

Josephes and his Company leave Galafort, and arrive at the great City Kamaalot, where all the paynim kings are crownd (p. 206). He preaches the Name of God, and converts 1050 Saracens (p. 207), at which their king Agrestes is so grievd that he plots how to bring them back to their old faith, and is baptized himself with false intent (p. 207-8), the Devil being closed up in his heart (p. 208). Josephes leaves twelve of his 'Cosynes' in charge to teach the people of the City, and sets out to Scotland with his father, &c. (p. 208-9). King Agrestes sends for his chief lords, who are all false Christians, and plots with a false knight Landoyne to set up a Cross in his room, and kill every one who will worship it, but let the deniers of it go free (p. 209-10). On pain of death they make many deny it, and kill those who won't (p. 210). Then Joseph's twelve relatives are stript, dragd through the streets, and their brains batterd out on a Cross (p. 211). A wooden Cross is also dragd through the City (p. 211); and the King is satisfied, but immediately goes out of his wits, strangles his wife and child, kills his brother, raves about the street (p. 211-12), and then dies (p. 212). The people send for Josephes; he comes and buries the Martyrs, whose Cross remains red till Arthur's time (p. 212), and is called The Red Cross (l. 240, p. 212). Josephes orders all paynim temples and images to be destroyed (p. 213), has a Church built to St Stephen, brings the people back to Christianity, and then leaves them (p. 213).

OF MOYS'S PRESUMPTION AND ITS PUNISHMENT; AND OF BRONS AND HIS SONS, AND ALEYN THE GROS.

Josephes leaves Galafort, and one of his company, Brons, goes next him (p. 214). They sit at the Graal-table, with a seat for one between them, and Peers asks that some one may fill it (p. 214). Josephes says that it's left void to typify Christ's seat at the Last Supper, and can only be filld by a holier man than any one there. This, Moys, Symon, and others take as presumption (p. 215), consider as fable (p. 215); and Moys says he is willing to sit in it if his fellows will ask Josephes's leave (p. 216). So they go and ask Josephes (p. 216), who warns them that Moys is a sinner, and not fit for it (p. 217); but still he gives leave (p. 217). Moys next day sits in the seat (p. 218), and at once Seven Flaming Hands from Heaven cast fire on him, and carry him off to a far place, burning like a dry bush (p. 219). The people repent, and Josephes tells them they shall see where Moys is, some day (p. 219). At Brons's request, Josephes has Brons's twelve sons up before him to ask whether they will be wedded or not (p. 220), Eleven choose wedding, but the twelfth chooses virginity and the keeping of the Holy Graal (p. 220), which Josephes promises him, and then marries the eleven brothers (p. 221-2). Josephes then sets out through the country, converting Paynims (p. 222). The sinners of his company in a "wastable" place want food, and find a fish-pond (p. 223); but the good livers go to service, and are fed by the Holy Graal (p. 224). The sinners, not being fed, beg Josephes to pray for them (p. 224); and he orders Brons's twelfth son, Aleyn the Gros (p. 225), to take the net from the Graal-table, and fish with it in the pond (p. 225). Aleyn does so, but catches only one fish, which the sinners say will not feed a tenth of them (p. 225-6); however, Aleyn, having prayd to God, feeds the whole of the men with the fish (p. 226-7), and is christend by them "Aleyn the Rich Fisher" (p. 227, l. 472), the pond being nam'd "Aleynes Stagne" (p. 227).

Josephes and all his company continue their journey, and a good man named Bron is always Josephes's companion.

CHAPTER XLIX.

Nether Of here Ioye halfendel Cowde spelle.

OF JOSEPH'S ADVENTURES, AND HOW HE BRINGS A DEAD MAN BACK TO LIFE.

How Joseph has a "talent" or desire to go into another country, and sets out on a Friday to the Forest of Brooklond. There he meets a Saracen knight (p. 228), whose brother is badly wounded, and neither of the four Saracen Gods, Mahownd, Termagaunt, Jupiter, and Appolyn, can cure him (p. 229). Joseph says, of course not, because they are made with men's hands; but he can cure the brother, though only by God's help (p. 229); on which the Saracen threatens him with death, if he lies (p. 230); but instead, a wild lion kills the Saracen as soon as they reach his "Castel of Roch" (p. 231). The men of the Castle bring their dead lord's brother to Joseph (p. 232), who promises to cure him if he will believe on God (p. 233), for the Saracens' idols can help no one, and neither move nor go (p. 233): try them, and see if they can cure the dead knight (p. 233). Joseph is unbound, and the corpse put before the idols (p. 234). Joseph prays, and thunder and lightning burn and smash the idols (p. 235). The wounded Saracen knight (Mathegrans) asks Joseph who he is (p. 236), and says that he will believe the Trinity if it will bring his brother to life (p. 236). Joseph prays to Christ; the brother, Argon, comes back to life (p. 236-7), and all turn believers, and are baptizd (p. 238). With part of the steward's sword, Joseph heals Mathegrans (p. 238), and then, putting it to the point left in his own thigh, he draws the point out clean, as if no flesh had toucht it (p. 239), and says that the pieces of the sword shall not join till Galahad comes (p. 239). Wherefore the sword is held in great honour (p. 239).

Joseph tells his son Josephes that he desires to go into another country, Whiles they spoken Of this Mattere, Iosephe to his sone Iosephes seide there, "Swich a talent Is comen to Me that I moste gon Into Anothir Contre.

CHAPTER L.

OF JOSEPH'S FURTHER ADVENTURES; AND OF THE CRIMES OF CHANAAN AND SYMEN.

Joseph starts for the Forest of Darnantes, and by a great water finds his people, who cannot pass over it (p. 241). They pray to God, and soon see a White Hart start out of a bush, attended by Four Lions (p. 242), which leads them all over the water, except Chanaan (p. 242-3). Chanaan's eleven brothers beg Joseph to help their brother over (p. 244), and so Joseph walks over the water to him, and offers to take him back (p. 244); but Chanaan is afraid to go without a boat, and Joseph returns without him (p. 245). However some fishermen soon after bring him over (p. 245), but they, Joseph says, are Pagans, and shall perish soon; as they do, in a tempest (p. 246). Joseph then promises the people they shall see where Moys is (p. 247). Peers and Brons ask Joseph to explain the meaning of the White Hart and the Four Lions (p. 247); and he tells them that Christ is the hart, and his and his Mother's virginity the whiteness; that the Four Evangelists are the Lions (p. 247-8), and that Christ shall appear "angerly" to Launcelot and Modred in Arthur's time (p. 248). Joseph and his people continue their journey, and come to a Castle, where they see no one, but only a great fire burning (p. 249); and out of the fire comes a voice, crying on Joseph to pray for the owner of it, that his pain may be lessend (p. 249), for, when Ministers of Hell reft him from Joseph, and were carrying him away, a holy Hermit orderd them to give him up, and they dropt him at once into that fire (p. 250). The voice also tells Aleyn the Gros that it is Moys who cries, his "Nygh Cosin," who rould sit in the Seat at the Graal table (p. 251). While Moys talks to his father Symen (p. 252), Joseph and Aleyn pray for him, and immediately a rain from heaven quenches great part of the fire (p. 252-3), so that Moys is relieve of almost all his pain (p. 253), though he must stop where he is till Galahad comes to release him (p. 253-4). He begs Joseph to go through the country and convert the people (p. 254); and so Joseph goes on through Scotland, which got its name from King Elcose (p. 254). At supper, all are fed by the Holy Graal, except Chanaan and Symen (p. 254-5), who grumble together that this is not by their fault, but by that of their fathers and brethren (p. 255); and so Symen agrees to take vengeance on Peers, and Chanaan on his brethren (p. 256). Chanaan accordingly kills his twelve brethren (p. 257), but Symen only wounds Peers with a poisond knife (p. 258); is caught, taken before Joseph, and confesses that Chanaan murderd his brethren (p. 259). Joseph prays for vengeance on Chanaan (p. 260), but is told from Heaven to do judgment himself (p. 260). He insists on his Company deciding the sinners' fate (p. 261); and they bury Chanaan and Symen in two pits "up stonding even to the chynne" (p. 262). From towards the realm of Gales come flying two burning men, who pull out Symen, and fly off with him (p. 262), but whither "my maister Sire Roberd de Borron" says not here; it will appear hereafter (p. 262).

Joseph leaves Argon's castle. Thanne parted thens Iosephe Anon Al so faste As he Cowude gon, CHAPTER LI.

OF THE FATE OF CHANAAN, AND OF PIERS'S WOUND.

Chanaan, having been firmly burid in his pit up to the shoulders, with his hands tied behind him, begins to repent (p. 263-4), and prays to Christ to pardon him, and to Joseph to pray for him (p. 264-5). He then begs the people to unbind his hands that he may raise them in prayer to God (p. 265), and to bury him near his brethren if he dies before Joseph leaves the country, because then passers-by will pray for his soul (p. 266). His friends take pity on him, and unbind his hands (p. 266), and make tombs for his twelve brethren, and one for him when he dies (p. 266-7). Joseph says a sword must be set on all the tombs (p. 267); and comforts Piers (p. 268), whose wound his friends had made worse with herbs (p. 268). Next morning a sword is seen set on each tomb by no earthly hand (p. 269), and upon Chanaan's tomb a fire (p. 269). Joseph predicts that Lancelot shall extinguish the fire (p. 269-70), and that Galahad shall free Symen, Chanaan, and Moys (p. 270). Pharans stays behind (p. 270), and builds a chapel in Balaan's country, where he can pray for Chanaan (p. 271), and Piers is left with him; the rest start off (p. 271). Piers grows worse, to Pharans's great distress (p. 271-2). As Piers's wound gets worse and worse, he begs Pharans to take him to the nearest sea; which Pharans does, on assback (p. 272), and puts him on board of a ship that they find there (p. 273). Piers begs Pharans to go back and leave him alone (p. 273-4); they commend one another to God, and Piers sails off (p. 274).

Now hauen 3e herd how that this Storye

They pity Chanaan,	Whanne he hadde Mad thus his preyere, Alle his bretheryn that there were, Of hym hadden ful gret pyte For that so sore thanne wepte he,	116
and unbind his hands, and after his death, bury him with his brothers.	and fulfilden Anon his Byddynge, and vnbownden his handis aftir his Askynge; & there Amyddis his bretherin twelve they him begroven As he desired him-selve;	120
John (a)	And On Eche brothir Aftyr his kynde Of the beste ston that they Cowde fynde, and Of Marbil they weren Echon Also ferforth As thei mihten it don;	124

and vppon Chanaam, whanne he was ded, they leyden An nothir In that sted, and vppon Eche A ston was wreten the Name Of the twelve bretheren there Alle In same; & vppon Chanaam they wreten A scripture Ryht In this Manere, I 30w Enswre, "here lyth Chanaam Of Ierusalem In Certain that his twelve bretherin falsly hath Slayn;" and Alle In that Cyte weren they bore, As 3e han me herd Rehersen before.

And whanne they hadden thus I-do, thanne of Iosephes¹ Axeden they tho, 3if he wolde Owht remeven that Ilke day. thanne Anon Iosephes to hem Seyde, "Nay, but here scholen we dwellen Echon Tyl that this day be Al Agon, For A gret thing that Nedful Is, that behoueth to be don with-Owten Mys.

"Ful wel 3e knowen, as 3e mown sen, that Alle these, worthy knyhtes han ben; there-fore wile I that Ech Of hem haue A signe here I-Mad vppon his grave, In signefiaunce that knyhtes they were, & this schal be don whiles we ben here." thanne Axeden they what syne it scholde be, "On Eche tombe A swerd, he seide, Sekerle, In signefiaunce Of hem that lyn there, that In here dayes so worthy knyhtes were; For Man schal non passen be this way that theke swerdis scholen taken Away." thanne thus fulfild they his Comaundement that he hem had there present.

That Nyht lyen they Alle In Certayn there As the twelve bretheren weren slayn; and there Amonges hem In that stownde they gonnen to serchen peerses 2 wounde;

128

They put marble tombs over Chanaan and his brothers,

CHAPTER LII.

OF PIERS'S ADVENTURES. HOW HE IS CURED, AND BEATS
KING ORCAWS, KILLS KING MARAHANS, MARRIES CAMYLLE, BEGETS HERLAWNT, AND IS BURID.

Piers's ship carries him to the land of the Pagan king Oreaws (p. 277), whose daughter is playing on the shore; she comes on board, pities him, and wishes her father's Christian prisoner could cure him (p. 277-8). Piers begs her to get him some relief (p. 279), and her damsels propose to take him down by the water, through her garden, and up to her chamber, where the Christian leech can cure him (p. 280-1). They do this, though it makes Piers think he shall die (p. 281). Then they get the Christian prisoner out of prison (p. 281). He has Piers carried into the praiel, and sees that his wound is poisond (p. 283), but heals him within a month (p. 284). Now, King Marahans of Ireland comes to disport him with King Oreaws, and a traitor butler poisond his sou (p. 284); this, Marahans thought was Oreaws's doing; so he impeaches Oreaws of treason to King Luce of Great Britain, whereupon their gages are east before the Parliament at London, and the day of battle fixt (p. 284-5). Orcaws's brother won't fight for him, as he knows that Marahans is stronger than he himself is (p. 285). So, to find out his best baron, Oreaws proclaims that one of Marahans's knights will fight twelve of his (p. 286). The king (Oreaws) gets his steward to arm him secretly, rides to the Bridge (p. 287), and there defeats the twelve knights one after another (p. 288), telling them to go and yield themselves to King Oreaws (p. 289). He then returns to his Castle, goes to dinner, pretends to be sick (p. 289-90); next day receives the twelve knights, and affects to be surprisd that they can't tell him the name of their conqueror (p. 290). He proclaims far and wide that this conqueror will joust at the Bridge with any knight (p. 290); but intending combatants shrink from the encounter (p. 291). As soon, however, as Piers hears of it, he begs the king's daughter to get him harness and a horse (p. 292), which she does (p. 292), and then he rides to the Bridge, attacks King Oreaws (p. 293), and after a time knocks him over his horse's crupper (p. 294). They then fight on foot (p. 294) till Orcaws is overcome (p. 295); but he will die sooner than yield (p. 296). Piers makes him tell him who he is (p. 296), and, on learning that he is King Oreaws, gives up his own sword to him (p. 296), and begs forgiveness for having attacked him. This Oreaws grants, on condition that Piers fights Marahans, which Piers agrees to do (p. 298). They return secretly to Orcaws's Castle (p. 299), and the king charges his daughter to make Piers better cheer than ever (p. 299). When cured of their wounds, Oreaws and Piers set out for London (p. 300), and find Marahans at the Court of King Lucie, ready to fight (p. 300). Piers throws down his gage (p. 300); they fight; Piers kills Marahans (p. 301), declines to stay with King Lucie (p. 302), and goes home (p. 302). For his service, Orcaws offers him any reward he chooses (p. 303); he chooses that Orcaws should turn Christian; converts him accordingly (p. 303). has him baptizd, his name changd to Lamet, and his daughter's to Camille (p. 304). The people turn Christians too, and build the city Orkanye, in remembrance of Orcaws (p. Then Oreaws proposes to Piers that he should marry his daughter Camylle (p. 304), which he consents to do, and the marriage is celebrated royally (p. 305). King Lucie comes to see Piers, who converts him and all his people (p. 305). Now, Brut's Story makes no mention of Piers (p. 306), but Sire Robert Borron and the Old Story do (p. 306); and so it is clear that he who drew this out in Romance knew full little of Seynt Graal or the Story of Sank Ryal (p. 306). Piers begets a son Herlawnt, who, after Piers's death, burid him in St. Philip's church, and marrid the daughter of the King of Ireland (p. 306-7), on whom he begat Melyan, and Melyan begat Agristes, and Agristes begat Hedor (p. 307), and Hedor begat four sons, Gawneyns, Granayns, Gwerrehes, and Gaheriet (p. 308). Now, Mordret was supposed to be King Lot's son, but truly King Arthur begat him on his own sister (p. 308, 1, 1149-56, and Appendix); though this was before he wedded Gonnore, who was a worthy lady, and of good lore (p. 309).

Now this storye doth forth procede whedir that Cryst Piers¹ gan lede:

	whanne kyng Marahans to forn hym was pere,
	and him hadde Compleyned In dyvers Manere,
impeaches King	and Apechyd kyng Orkaws Of Treson,
Oreaws of treason.	For that he hadde poysoned his son,—	288
Oreaws appears	thus sone Orkaws After was sent before the London parliament,	to Londone to Comen to parlement.

and, whanne Orkaws to Londone was gon,
kyng Marahans Of treson him Apechid Anon,	292
and Seide that [he] be fals Treson		denies the charge,
In his Castel hadde poysoned his son.
Anon kyng Orkaws that gan denaye,
and seide the Contrarye to him in faye;	296
and In that qwarel his Gage he kaste,		and offers to de-

For Of paynemys he bar the prys,
As Aboven oper flowres doth be flowr delys.	304
Thus this bataylle Enioyned was,
and bothe fownden Ostages In that plas;
and the day Assigned was Also Whanne that the Bataylle scholde be do.	308	The battle is thanne kyng Orkaws torned hom Ageyn,		arrangd. Orcaws asks his and Aftyr his brothyr sente In Certein		brother to fight for him, that the bataylle for hym scholde don hat day.
his brothir him Answerid, and seide "Nay,	312
For 3e knowen ful wel that kyng Marahans

his body and Myn to-Gederis In fere;
It schal not ben In non Mancre."	320
Whanne kyng Orkaws this vndirstood,		Orcaws does not
thanne Anon began to Chongen his Mood		know what to do, whanne that his brothir it hadde forsake,
and that the bataille he wolde not take.	324
Ful Mochel Mone thanne he Made,

that he som Opir knyht ne hadde;

for he has often	For so Often tymes Asayed had he

Now the story returns to Josephes.

CHAPTER LIII.

OF JOSEPHES AGAIN, AND OF HIS YOUNGEST BROTHER GALAS.

Josephes journeys among the wild forests and beasts between England and Scotland, visits Wales. Ireland, and other strange Countries (p. 310), and then goes to Galafort, which he left fifteen years before (p. 311). He finds his mother burid, and his brother Galas a knight, such as Gaanor never saw before (p. 311-12). The men of Hotelise (afterwards Galez) send and ask Josephes to choose them a king (p. 312). By the advice of Gaanor, Nasciens, and twelve wise men (p. 312), Josephes confers the Crown on Galas (p. 313); and with a great company they all proceed to Hotelise, and its chief city Palagre, where Galas is crownd (p. 314). He is so much liked, that after his death the name of his country was change to Galez, 'whiche Name Neuere chongen schal In this world whiche is Fynal' (p. 315). He marries, and from him descends King Vryens of the Round Table, who was slain in Arthur's fight against Mordret (p. 315). Now,

I'll tell you an adventure of Galaaz's: One evening after hunting he comes on a quaint sight, a great Fire in a dry Ditch (p. 316). Out of it comes a voice, saying that it's his Cousin Symew, who's burning there for his misdeeds, and wants a Place of Religion founded to allay his pains (p. 316-17), which cannot end till Galahad, unstaind by lust, comes to quench them (p. 317). So Galaaz promises to found an Abbey, and to be burid there for Symew's ease (p. 317). The Abbey is built and endowd (p. 318), and Galaaz entombd there when he dies, till Lancelot of the Lake removes his corpse (p. 318-19).

Now forth this Storye gynneth to procede, and to Othere Materis it wyle vs lede.

CHAPTER LIV.

HOW JOSEPH DIED, AND JOSEPHES 'PASTE TO GOD IN A BLESID TYME.'

Joseph dies, and is burid in an Abbey of the Cross of England (p. 320); and Josephes, sick and 'deseysy,' goes to King Mordreins (p. 320), and says he is full of joy, because God has told him he shall die next morning (p. 320-1). Mordreins then asks for some token of remembrance of him (p. 321), and Josephes tells him to send for the Shield which he gave him for his battle with Tholomer (see vol. i. p. 109-110). When it comes, Josephes's nose bleeds (p. 321), and with the blood he makes a Cross on the Shield (p. 322), gives it to Mordreins, and says no one shall hang it on his neck without repenting the deed, till Galahad takes it (p. 322). Mordreins thanks God for giving him sight to see the shield (p. 323), and asks Josephes where he shall put it (p. 323). 'On Nasciens's tomb, for there shall Galahad come' (p. 323). On the morrow Josephes 'paste to God in a blesid tyme' (l. 138). His father's body is carrid into a land where there is a famine, and at once the famine ceases (p. 323). The body is burid in the Abbey of Glavs, which is thenceforth called Glaystyngbery (p. 324).

Thanne procedyth forth this storye, and telleth how pat to Galafort Iosephes gan hye, to speken with kyng Mordreyns verament that often tymes hadde for hym sent, whom ful gret desir he hadde to se, As I 30w seye ful Certeynle.

CHAPTER LV.

HOW CASTLE CORBENIE IS BUILT FOR THE HOLY GRAAL, AND VENGEANCE IS DONE FOR DESPITE TO IT AND SOLOMON'S SWORD.

Josephes, before his death, gives the Holy Graal in charge to Aleyn (p. 326), and with it he and his brethren journey from Galafors through strange lands, till they come to a foolish (nise) people, who know nothing but land-tilling, in the land of Foreygne, the king of which, Galafres, is a leper in his city Malee (p. 326-7). The king has Aleyn brought before him, and asks him if he can cure him (p. 328). Aleyn says, Yes, if he will turn Christian, and destroy all his idols (p. 328). Galafres then breaks them all to pieces (p. 329), is christend (p. 330), and Josephes shows him the Graal, which cures him instantly (p. 330). In honour of this, Galafres beheads all his people who will not turn Christians, so that the land is converted within a month (p. 330). He then offers to give his daughter in marriage to Aleyn's brother Joswe, and build a Castle for the Graal (p. 331). The eastle is built, and is miraculously directed to be calld Corbenie, or Treasure of the Holy Vessel (p. 331-2). The Graal is deposited there, Joswe crownd there, and marrid to Alphanye, on whom he begets an heir, Amynadappe (p. 332-3). At night, King Alphasan (formerly Galafres) sees a Vision,—the Graal on a silver table, a priest before it, and the sound of a thousand voices, and of the beating of birds' wings (p. 333). Then a flaming man tells him that he shall suffer for being in that holy place, and stabs him through both thighs (p. 333-4). The king gets his barons to carry him out of Corbenie, which he names "The Palace of Adventure" (p. 334-5), and in which no knight but one ever slept without meeting his death (p. 335). In ten days Alphasan dies, and is burid with Aleyn in St Mary's at Corbenie (p. 335-6). After Joswe's death, his son Amynadappe reignd in his stead (p. 336). And Amynadappe begat Carcelois, and Carcelois Mangel, and Mangel Lambor (p. 336). Now, Lambor fought with his old cousin Varlans, who was a paynim, and discomfitted him (p. 336-7), and Varlans went on board the ship which Nasciens enterd at the Yl Tornaunt (vol. i. p. 356, &c.), and found a sword-Solomon's-with which he, Varlans, killd king Lambor (p. 337); whence came great tribulation to both lands, for in neither did tree bear fruit, or fish live, and they were calld the Wastable Land (p. 337-8). On going back for the Scabbard, King Varlans falls dead (p. 338). Now after Lambor, his son Pellean reigns, who is wounded through both thighs, is calld King Mayham (p. 338), and is heald by Galahad. Pellean's son is Pelles, whose daughter Pelle passes all women in Britain for beauty, save Gonnore, Arthur's wife (p. 339); and on Pelle, Launcelot begets Galahad, the blessed knight, who ends all the Adventures of Britain (p. 339).

CHAPTER LVI.

OF CELIDOYNE AND HIS DEATH, AND THE GOOD KING
LANCELOT. OF THE BLEEDING TOMB, AND THE END OF THE HISTORY OF THE HOLY GRAAL.

How Nasciens, Flegentyne, and Sarracynte, all die in one day, and the two Queens are burid in the Abbey where Mordreins lies bed-ridden (p. 341); but Nasciens with his shield is carrid to another Abbey; and no man till Galahad can take away the shield (p. 341-2). How Celidoyne knights his son Narpus, and is so great in Almsdeeds, that, if all the world had been his, he'd have given it away in alms (p. 342). And he was very learned in Astronomy (p. 342), and saw in the stars that a Famine was coming; so he sent his steward to buy Corn (p. 343), and the people mockt him; but they were provd Fools, and he a wise man (p. 343), for the famine came and killd half the people; and some foreigners (Saxons) agreed to invade Britain, take the corn, and destroy the inhabitants (p. 343-4). But Celidoyne sees it all in the stars, and assembles his Barons (p. 344). Narpus advises an ambush in a forest (p. 345), and one is laid. enemy land, but Celidoyne's men attack them in three bodies, and the men of Sessoigne are all killd (p. 346-7). Celidoyne is afterwards burid at Camelot (p. 347). His son Narpus begets Nasciens, and Nasciens begets Elayne the Gros (p. 347), who begets Isaies, and he begets Jonas. and Jonas marries the daughter of king Murionex of Wales, and on her begets Avme (p. 347-8), who begets Launcelot, and he has two sons, Bans (of Baynoic) and Brons (p. 348). Bans has three sons, one Hestor a bastard, the others Lancelot and Boors; and Boors begets Lyoniax and young Boors (p. 348). Of the grandfather Lancelot, hear this: he lovd purely a beautiful wedded dame, whose tresses shone like torchlight (p. 349), and he often went to see her. But people 'Acombered with the devil' wrongly said they lovd in sin, and excited the Duke, the lady's husband, to be revengd on Lancelot (p. 350). Now, on Good Friday, King Lancelot went barefoot through the Forest Perilous (p. 351), and, having confesst his sins, was drinking at a well, when the Duke cut his head off (p. 351), and then tried to get the head out of the well to insult it more; but God made the water boil, so that it burnt his hands, and he couldn't (p. 352). his way home, a youth told him that such darkness had come on his Castle that no man could see another (p. 352), and on his entering the Castle 'a gret kernel of ston' killd him, and all that assented to the murder (p. 353). The well ever boils, and the tomb over Lancelot sheds blood every day at the time his head was cut off, which blood cures people of all their wounds (p. 353).

But one day two lions fight there for the carcase of a hart (p. 354), and tear one another till neither recks of his life; then one licks the blood of the tomb, and is curd; and the other, seeing this, gets curd too, and they make peace, and gnard the tomb, so that no one can come to be heald at it (p. 354-5), till Lancelot de Lake kills them (p. 355).

Now, I have made an end of this (Graal) Story, and must begin another, called Prophet Merlin, translated by Robert of Borrown out of Latin into French, and joined with Sanh Ryal (p. 355); therefore pray a Pater-Noster for me, Herry Lonelich, and greet our Lady with an Ave that I may bring this book to a good end (p. 356).

Now Scheweth forth this Storye and putteth vs into More memorye; For whanne that Iosephes hens scholde pase, Nasciens And Celidoigne weren In that plase, And Ek Narpus the sone of Celidoygne, A ful worthy knyht In Certaygne. and whanne this terement was I-do1, thanne Anon Celidoygne wente hem fro, and sire Nasciens with Mordreyns lefte Sikerle To beren hym Felischepe and Compeyne; and so that Aftyr It happede, As I zow Say. that Alle thre they deyden In On day, bothe Nasciens and Flegentyne his wyf, and Also Mordreins qwene there left hire lyf, that Noble quene Sarracynte, Of Goddis Servise Neuere sche stynte.

Thus bothe the ladyes Enterid were In that same Abbey with-Owten dwere where As Mordrayns bedered lay; bothe weren they Enterid In On day, but Nasciens liked not there for to be, but to Anothir Abbey was born Sekerle; and with him was born that Scheld that non knyht ne dorste be-weld; and 3it Cam thedyr ful Many A knyht For that scheld there to proven his Myht; but Abowtes his Nekke henge it neuere Man

THE INCESTUOUS BEGETTING BY ARTHUR OF MORDRED,

WHO AFTERWARDS SLEW HIM FOR HIS SIN,

AS MERLIN PROPHESIED.

THE BIRTHE AND THE ENGENDRURE OF MORDRET.

From Lonelich's translation of Merlin (Corp. MS. fol. 135, col. 1.)

[See p. 339 of the Text.]

Soth hit is, that kyng lothis wyf		King Lot's wife
was kyng Artheuris soster with-Owten stryf,		was Arthur's sister.
Ryht evene fully In the same degre
as was kyng Newtris wyf Sekerle.	4
this lady bar be hire lord Loth the kyng
fowre worthy childeren with-Owten lesing,		She had 4 children by her
Gawnenet, Agravains, and sire Garrers,		husband,
Gaheryes, foure knyhtes bothe goode and fers.	8
On the tothyr syde was Sire Mordret,		and one, Mordred,
hire Eldest sone with-Owten let,		by her brother Arthur:
whiche that On hire be Artheur Engendrid was;		Aithui.
and wyle 3e now heren, be A wondyr Cas;	12
For I thenke to tellen 30w Every del		and I'll tell you how this betell.
how he was begeten On hire ful snel,		Zow this selective
So thanne the bettere May this storye
ben More Alowed ful Sekerlye.	16
For Mani Men knowen not how pat it was
Of his be-geteng, ne nowht the Cas;
therfore they preisen it moche the lasse;
For they ben vnknoweng Of day & plase.	20

	hyt behappede, As I 30w schal say, that the Barons Alle vppon a day
All the British	Of pe Rewm Of logres assembled were
at Cardiff,	At kerdyf In Wales, with-Owten dwere,	24
to choose a	there forto chesen hem A newe kyng successor to Uther Pendragon.
	so that kyng loth with him gan lede
	with hym his wyf Into that stede;	28
	and so dyden Oper barons Also that here wyves dyde with hem go.
	So that kyng loth I-logged he was,
	and Alle his Meyne, In A ful fair plas,	32
	In wheche place Antron Hogged was he,
	and with him Sire kay ful Certeinle;
Arthur was lodgd	and artheur ful previly Ilogged he was in King Lot's chamber,	In pe kyngges chombre, so fil the Cas.	36
	And Whanne Kyng Loth to Mete Was Set, aftir Antron he sente with-Owten let,
	and Also Anon Aftyr Sire kay,
	that but A 30ng knyht was that day;	40
	So pat kyng loth Ordeyned there that Antron & Sire kay Ilogged were In his Owne Chambre ful prevyly;
	and 3ong Artheur was logged faste by	44
in a corner in	At thentre Of the Chambre In A korner,
the entry, as squires were.	as befyl that tyme for A worthy sqwyer.
	This Artheur was a faire 3 ong Man,
	and mochel Of Norture that tyme he kan,	48
	and that lady he was fayn to plese, & ek to kyng loth to don him Ese.
This fair young Arthur love Let's	This lady was bothe fayr & 3yng,
fair wife.	And a good womman over alle thing,	52
	whom that Artheur lovede prevyly,
	but sche ne rowhte, sche wiste not sikerly;
	for stedfast sche was to hire Lord,
	and him to plese At his Owne Acord.	56

So hit behappede, As I 30w say,		The night before that Al the Baronage hadde taken A day		a meeting of the Barons at the
at the Blake Cros to Meten In fere,		Black Cross,
there forto touchen Of here Matere.	60
So On the Nyht before hit happede tho that kyng loth scholde thider go,
he charged prevyly his Meyne
that hors and harneis Redy scholde be	64
At Midnyght with him forto gon:
thus prevyly he charged hem Everiehon.
So that his Meyne verament
Fulfild In haste his Comaundement:	68
vnknowen the lady of Alle this thing,		King Lot stole
ful prevyly from hire wente he stalkyng,		quietly from his wife's hed,
And In hire bed lefte hire stylle On slepe,		and left her sleeping.
for Of his goynge took sche non kepe.	72
and Artheur that wel knew of Al this,
that In that Corner pere lay Iwys,
took good kepe Of the kynges goynge, and ful prevyly to here bed wente he stalkynge;	76	Arthur got into
and there he turnede hym bothe to & fro,		her bed,
but 3it this lady On slepe was tho.
So as hit happede, this kas gan gon;		and when she
this lady Awok, and hire tornede Anon,	80	woke, she embraced him.
and him Enbraced Al In hire Slepe,
that Of non Othir took sehe non kepe
but Of hire Owne lord so dere,
weneng to hire to ben hire fere.	84
And whanne that Arthewr felte this, thanne wiste he wel with-Owten Mys
that Of hym sche took non kepe
but as A womman that was In slepe.	88
So that he Embraced hire Ageyn,		He returnd it,
and so be hire he lay In Certeyn;		lay with her,
where-offen the lady ful Ioyful was,
sche wende hire Lord hadde ben In pat plas.	92

and begat Mordred on her.	and that Nyht, in Certein to say, was Mordret begeten with-Owten delay In this Maner As 3e now here. And whanne that Artheur his wil hadde there,	96
	he ne slepte non Maner thing
	tyl that lady was fallen In Slombring.
Then he stalkt away,	thanne stalkyd Artheur previliche Away,
she knowing nothing of it till	For perof ne wyste non, the sothe to say,	100
he told her next day.	Tyl On the Morwe, As hit gan falle, that hym self hit tolde In the halle
	whanne sche was set At hire denere,	701
	and Artheur as hire kervere knelede there.	104
	So that hit happede the this lady gent,
He knelt to her.	Of his long knelyng took good Entent.
She bade him rise.	"leve sevs," sche saide, "30ng Bacheler,	7.00
	Ful long 30w thinken that 3e knelen her."	108
	And he AnsWerede Ful boldliche Ageyn,
	"to longe may I not knelen Certeyn;
He thankt her for her great kindness	For I ne may not deserven the grete bownte,	110
to him,	Myn Owne lady, that 3e han don for me."	112
	thanne axede this lady Anon Ryht,
	"what bowntes ben tho, gentyl wyht?"
	thanne seide Artheur, "Certeinle	110
	that for him discouered scholde hit neuere be;	116
and got her to promise,	Ne non thyng to hire he wolde discrye,
if he told her what it was,	but 3if Of trowthe sche wolde hym Affye,
	that neuer sche scholde discouere to non Creature;	100
that she'd keep it a secret,	And Also Anothir thing sche schold hym Sure,	120
and protect him from harm.	that harm to his body scholde sche neuere do, ne be hire to ben purchased nether to ne fro."
	And sche hire trowthe Ensured hym ful son,	104
	As womman Of that Mater took kepe non.	124
	thanne Anon Arthewr gan hire to telle prevyly betwixen hem how hit be-felle,
	and In what Maner that he be hire lay,	128
	Al he hire tolde thike same day.	٥شد

Anon this lady gan wexen Red, The Queen blusht, that for pure schame sche was ny ded; but non wyht wiste Of here Covyne, for At that tyme wolde sche no more dyne, 132 but let tables ben drawen verament, and ful faste to hire Chombre sche went. and went to her room lo, thus zonge Artheur be his soster lay that kyng Lothis wif was that day; 136 but hit behappede neuere Aftyr More; and thus was Mordret of hire body bore; In due time, Mordred was born. For sche knew wel be tyme & space that be Arthewr with childe sche was. 140 Whanne that the tydynges gonnen for to springe When Arthur was to be made king. that this 30nge Artheur scholde be kynge, And this Mordret was the Ibore, thanne In herte louede sche him wel more 144 Lot's Queen lovd him thanne Ony man cowde tellen that day; franticly. but for hire lord sche dorste nowht say.
